BOMBARDING FORTS OF POLISH CAPITAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Petrograd, Aug. 3.—With sanguinary fighting in progress northeast and southeast of Warsaw, where the Teuton allies are struggling to draw closer the horns of the semi-circle which now stretches around the city, the Austro-German forces in front of the Polish capital have begun to bombard the Russian forts with their heaviest guns.

That Field Marshal von Hindenburg will not consent to the enormous losses that would result from an attempt to carry the forts by storm is shown by the great number of howitzers of the biggest calibre which are being placed in position to reduce the forts of Warsaw and Novo Georgievsk.

Warsaw is undergoing violent attacks from the air. On Sunday a fleet of German aeroplanes dropped more than 20 bombs upon the city, killing seven persons and wounding 14. Two of the air craft were hit by the Russian high angle guns which fired 100 shells at the aerial invaders.

In the Mitau Bausk district the German forces under Gen von Buelow are making the most terrific efforts against the Russian line, using cavalry forces on a scale hitherto unheard of in warfare.

All along the battle-front in Poland, except at the extreme ends, the Germans and Austrians are using enormous numbers of guns to battle their way through the Russian lines.

At a single point they concentrated 150 cannon with which they swept the Russian trenches with a hurricane of shot and shell that could not be withstood. The ammunition resources of the Teutons seem inexhaustible.

In the sector of Wyszkow, thirty miles northeast of Warsaw, where the Austro-German forces of Gen. von Gallwitz are located with the Russians, the Russians were more than holding their own when artillery reinforcements arrived and the Germans turned the day with their guns.

The situation east of the Vistula and south of Warsaw is becoming critical. The tenacity and courage of the Russians could not withstand the superior artillery and munition supplies of the Germans. The fortress of Ivangorod is in danger and, further to the east between the Vieprz and Bug rivers the Russians though holding strong positions, are menaced through the cutting of railway lines by the enemy.

On the right bank of the Narew river, south of Ostrolenka, bloody fighting is in progress. It is there that the Austro-German forces are making their supreme effort to severe the railway link between Warsaw and Petrograd. The Russians defending the position, have been ordered to die fighting, but not to retreat nor surrender.

ITALIANS ACTIVE IN CARNIC ALPS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, Aug. 3.—Italian howitzers are rapidly reducing Fort Hensel, the chief defensive work at Malborghetto, in the Carnic Alps and the Italian general staff is certain that the immediate future will see Austrian communication cut between Trentino and Carinthia.

Dispatches from Bologna today state that the bombardment of the Tarvis group of fortincations is making such headway and the Italian operations against the Austrian defences of Gorizia, on the Isonzo front, are so successful that Lieut. Gen. Count Luigi Cadorna has already mapped out his plan of campaign which will follow the fall of one or both of those places.

Prisoners of war and wounded Italian troops who are back from Gorizia declare that the fighting on the Isonzo front during the month of July ranked with any in France or Poland for sanguinary fierceness. Mountain gulleys and at some places the Isonzo river itself were choked with corpses.

A violent artillery duel is in progress in Cadore, following a lull caused by heavy fog.

The Italian Alpine troops are winning imperishable laurels in the Carnic Alps. The capture of Monte Modetta was a brilliant achievement.

On the Carso plateau the Austrian trenches were cut into the rocky slopes tier upon tier like a stairway and the Alpine troops, having succeeded in taking the first line, are now attacking the second.

McNulty Was Drunk.

Monday evening James McNulty, an aged man, was arrested by Policeman Welsh for creating a disturbance on the Boulevard. McNulty was annoying the neighbors with obscene language and was very drunk. This morning he was sober and was discarged with a reprimand by Acting Recorder Brinnier.

Saugerties Gunman

Clement Maxwell was brought to Jail Monday afternoon from Saugerties to await the action of the grand jury. He is charged with carrying concealed weapons and violating the Sullivan law.

VON BUELOW'S ARMY 20 MILES FROM RIGA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, Aug. 3.—Gen. von Buelow's cavalry army, which swept through Mitau on Sunday, is now only 20 miles from the important Russian port city of Riga, on the Baltic Sea.

Field Marshal von Mackensen's army southeast of Warsaw has also made further progress and now the gap in the semi-circle around Warsaw is only 100 miles long, at its narrowest point, east of the city.

While the wings of the Austrian-German forces are being drawn closer the army of Field Marshall von Hindenburg is standing firm in front of the city and the Russian forts are being shelled by the mightiest howitzers of the Teutonic forces. Sixteen and seventeen inch shells are crashing into the forts of Warsaw and Novo Georgievsk.

Although there is no report of any advance by the Austro-German forces west of Warsaw on the line stretching west of Novo Georgievsk and past Blonie and Gora Kalwarya, German military experts are not pessimistic. They declare it is part of the masterly strategy of Field Marshal von Hindenburg to hold his line without making any extraordinary efforts to advance so that the Russan army at Warsaw may not be pushed eastward beyond the Austro-German wings that are trying to encircle it behind Warsaw. It is the task of von Hindenburg to prevent the Russians from bending the Austro-German line west of Warsaw while Gen. von Buelow and Field Marshal von Mackensen push toward each other, cutting the Russian lines of communication and cooping up the Russians in a vast circle of steel.

U. S. TROOPS CAMP ON ASTOR ESTATE

Officers of Third Battalion, Thirtieth Regiment, Visit this City as Guests of Major Chandler and See the Ashokan Reservoir.

The Third battalion of the Thirtieth regiment U. S. Infantry, are in camp at Rhinebeck on that part of Vincent Astor's property which borders on the ball grounds. The troops are returning from Camp Whitman to their post at Plattsburgh. They broke camp at Fishkill Plains Sunday morning and will not reach Plattsburgh until August 21, a distance of 240 miles. On Monday afternoon Major Bandholtz, who commands the battalion, and nine of his officers came to Kingston as the guests of Major George Chandler. The automobiles of the Hon. George Washburn and Major Chandler took the party around the Ashokan reservoir. The officers, with the addition of Mr. Washburn and Capt. Frank L. Meagher, of Co. M., dined at the Eagle Hotel as guests of Major Chandler. Later Mrs. Chandler gave a dance in honor of the visiting officers, who returned to Rhinecliff by motor boat after midnight.

Major H. H. Bandholtz, the commander of the battalion, was at the time of the Spanish-American war a Brigadier-General of Volunteers. He was also for several years a military governor in the Philippines.

The ladies invited to dance with the officers were Mrs. George Washburn, Mrs. G. W. Stuart, who is the house guest of Mrs. Chandler, and whose husband is a captain in the regular army, Mrs. C. Gordon Reel, Miss Althea Briggs, Miss Kate Van Etten, Miss Jane Van Etten, Miss Hasbrouck, Miss Mildred Hiltebrant, Miss Boice, Mrs. James Fuller.

Van Derburgh of Newburgh.

Fred Van Derburgh of Newburgh was arrested on Monday evening by Policeman Shader for creating a disturbance when he tried to enter the Lowe boarding house at No. 154 Fair street, where his wife, who does not live with him, is boarding. Van Derburgh on Monday decided to come to Kingston and visit his wife and he packed two suit cases and with an old cigar box under his arm he hopped a freight to this city. He managed to ride unobserved by the train men until near the West Shore station when he was thrown out of the car with his baggage. This morning when arraigned before Acting Recorder William D. Brinnier, Jr., he was remanded to jail for three days and will be arraigned at the expiration of that time. It is thought that Van Derburgh is not right mentally.

Garment Workers Ready to Strike.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 3.—With a majority of the 60,000 members of the International Garment Workers' Union having voted to strike, 33,000 members of the Women's Waist and Dressmakers' Union, which is affiliated with the International organization, agreed today to go out in sympathy, thus bringing the idle up to nearly 100,000 persons unless the strike movement is unexpectedly checked at the eleventh hour. A conciliation conference, called by Mayor Mitchel, is trying to avert a walkout.

LATIN AMERICA TO AID IN MEXICO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Latin America will join the United States in bringing order out of chaos in Mexico. The great republics of the southern hemisphere have, after a wait of three years, been invited by the Wilson administration to confer with this country on ways and means to end the intolerable conditions south of the Rio Grande.

The diplomatic representatives in Washington or Argentina, Brazil and Chile, who assisted in keeping the United States from declaring war on Huerta: and of Guatemala, Bolivia and Uruguay, will confer with Secretary Lansing next Thursday afternoon. The secretary has characterized the conference as informal. But there is not the least doubt that if an agreement can be reached on ways and means of procedure for the recognition of a government that can be made stable, even though such recognition should involve forcible action, joint action by all the governments concerned will follow.

President Wilson has let friends here know during the last few days that he cannot longer withstand the pressure that has been brought to bear on him to end the present reign of anarchy in Mexico. Because of a realization of this fact the Carranza agency here has been moving heaven and earth during the last week to secure recognition of that faction as the dominant power in Mexico. Attorney Charles Douglas, the Carranzista legal representative here, who has just returned from Vera Cruz, has assured state department officials that if Carranza was recognized as the provisional president the first chief would eliminate himself as a candidate for election when a constitutional election is called.

But the Wilson administration is dissatisfied with all of the Carranza promises. In the past he has been the stumbling block to all attempts at settlement. Therefore unless the South American powers throw their influence toward him, it is unlikely that he will be recognized. However, one of the strongest "lobbies" ever in Washington was today working to put Carranza across.

Urgent messages have been sent to Carranza today by his representatives here demanding that he do his part to show that he is capable of solving the problem. He has been told that the big problem is the feeding of the starving in the capital. And he has been asked if he can get the food through in no other way, to stop all troop movements and to use the troop trains to move food.

Meanwhile Villa is apparently eliminated. Despite the denials made in his behalf, there is not the slightest doubt here that Villa did tell the Chihuahua merchants whose goods he confiscated that the United States government could "Go to hell." Villa is greatly angered at the United States because of the failure of the state department to recognize him and he is described in the confidential reports reaching here as "In an ugly mood."

GERMANY READY TO MAKE PEACE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, Aug. 3.—"Germany would accept reasonable peace conditions in accordance with the even balance, progress and safety of all nations" says the Deutsche Tage Zeitung in discusssing the recent peace proclamation of Pope Benedict XV.

"No country would receive a proclamation by the heads of the Roman Catholic Church with greater respect and less prejudice than Germany," the newspaper continues.

The foregoing item was allowed to pass by the German censor and was sent by wireless to London and Paris. It was the second time in two days that influential German newspapers have openly announced Germany's willingness to accept Pope Benedict XV as mediator in peace negotiations, the Koelnische Zeitung publishing an editorial of similar tenor yesterday. The question naturally arises:

"Is Germany ready for peace?"

Boy Scouts in Camp.

Troop No. 3, Boy Scouts of America, of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, are enjoying camp life on the farm of Pratt Boice along the Esopus creek. Much credit is due to Charles A. Warren for the success of the camp, he having furnished the Scouts with a large tent, cooking utensils and mess kits. There are twenty boys at the camp in charge of the Rev. Howard E. Snyder, pastor of the church, and two scout masters, Edward Geschwinder and Herman Britcliffe. The boys will remain in camp for another ten days.

Reid's son-in-law was later made chief engineer on the ill-fated boat. The picture was taken during the Federal Investigation into the causes of the disaster.

BRITISH DEFENSE NOT SATISFACTORY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 3.—The Wilson administration will refuse to accept the British defense of its blockade methods and its order in council. Already Secretary of State Lansing is bringing up to date the protest that is to go forward within a few days insisting on the right of American merchants to carry on a free and uninterrupted trade with neutral nations. This protest will be completed this week so that it can be considered by President Wilson and the cabinet when he returns to this city probably one week from today. Meanwhile it is understood at the state department that Germany will withhold her rejoinder to President Wilson's latest note until the American position toward the "British starvation blockade" is defined.

Officials already see a strong prospect of all the questions at issue between this country and England being diverted to a court of arbitration. England and the United States are parties to one of the Bryan treaties and if England should pointblank refuse to make any concessions to this government following the sending of the new note, she will be able, in the event that President Wilson should threaten any sharp action such as an interruption of diplomatic relations, to demand that all of the questions in dispute be sent to arbitration. In this respect at least, officials here declare, England has the whip hand on the United States at the present time.

Meanwhile the sentiment for congressional action to force England's hand is declared to be increasing. Hundreds of letters are pouring in on the administration and the protests of shippers and importers are growing more insistent day by day. Southern congressmen are waxing indignant as the time approaches for the marketing of another cotton crop and are insisting that the British blockade is now the most important thing before the administration.

Adding to the general discontent here and the talk of forcing England's hands is the unsuccessful attempt made to get the release of cargoes now held at Rotterdam and other points. The efforts of the department have been informal, but Great Britain has shown no disposition to hurry the relief of American importers or shippers.

There was also before Secretary Lansing today the latest German note on the Frye case. This was regarded as minor in importance, however, in comparison with the growing seriousness of the controversy with England. The German government it is understood makes no substantial change in its former position that Germany, regardless of the treaty of 1828 is entitled to take desperate measures to keep supplies from her enemies. It is not disclosed when the state department will act again on the Frye incident.

Burns Ready to Burn.

William Burns of Port Ewen went on a rampage Monday evening and started to break up housekeeping. He became drunk early in the evening and then started out to break up all the furniture and became so dangerous that his wife and four children were forced to leave the house and seek refuge with the neighbors. Word was sent in to the sheriff's office and Sheriff Shultis and Under Sheriff Hornbeck went over and upon their arrival found the floor soaked with kerosene oil and Burns about to set a match to it. He said it was his own property and he was going to have a conflagration all his own and nobody was going to stop him. He was taken into custody by the officers and brought to jail and today was taken back to Port Ewen for a hearing.

SNOWSTORMS IN DAKOTA AND IOWA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 3.—Snow fell early today north of Sioux City. A report from Aberdeen, S. D., stated that a heavy snow had fallen there during the night.

Escanaba, Mich., Aug. 3.—A light snow fell here yesterday, beginning at 3 o'clock and continued for several minutes. According to the "oldest resident" this is the first time in history that snow has fallen here in August.

QUARANTINED GIRL GOES VISITING

Charged with breaking quarantine in leaving her home, No. 128 North Front street, Miss Mary Whispell, 21 years old, a scarlet fever patient, was arrested on Monday afternoon and arraigned before Acting Recorder William D. Brinnier, Jr., at her home that afternoon when she was placed under $300 bail bond, which was furnished by Adelbert Chambers. A hearing will be held in the matter on August 13, at which time Miss Whispell will be released from quarantine. Miss Whispell is charged with leaving her home on June 20, and going to visit friends who live near the Ashokan spillway. She returned home on Monday and the police became aware of the fact and that afternoon Chief of Police J. Allan Wood and Acting Recorder Brinnier went to her home to arraign her, it not being deemed wise to bring a scarlet fever patient to recorder's court. When the chief and the acting recorder reached the Whispell home they stood in the hallway while Miss Whispell was called to the door and arraigned. She was not allowed to approach closer than ten feet from the authorities. If Miss Whispell is guilty of breaking quarantine regulations it is hard to say just how many people were exposed to the danger of the infectious disease by her act.

NEW DELIVERY CAR.

Mr. Relyea Attracts Considerable Attention With His New Car.

Many of the residents of this city and surrounding towns and villages are unaware of the opportunities presented to them in the form of cool and delicious drinks and fancy desserts which are very easily and quickly prepared from the substances furnished by Mr. Relyea of West O'Reilly street, this city. Mr. Relyea represents E. C. Rich of New York, importer and manufacturer of druggists' and grocers' specialties, Tryphosa and imperial wine jelly, Gibson's fruit tablets and orange and lemon sugar. All of these articles require but very little time and attention to be turned into a most palatable dessert and cool refreshing drink and can be prepared without the necessity of having to stand over a hot fire for any length of time. Orangeade and lemonade can be prepared simply by dissolving a portion of orange or lemon sugar, as desired, in a glass of ice cold water; larger quantities can be made according to directions and taste, as some like a stronger flavor than others. Mr. Relyea has added a new delivery car to his service which attracts a great deal of attention and enables him to better accommodate patrons who are desirous of taking advantage of his products.

MONTHLY SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Aug. 3.—Delegate Harold J. Hinman of Albany, for two years majority leader of the assembly, is confident that he will be able to obtain a flattering vote upon his proposed amendment to the constitution which would require the legislature to hold monthly sessions. He regards his proposition as the solution of too short or long drawn out sessions of the law-making body of the state and the one effective medium of attracting to the legislature the best qualified men possible.

"That the legislature ought to be frequently convened is a sound constitutional doctrine," says Mr. Hinman, "and by failing to cure the real evil which lies at the root of the legislative method, namely to provide more deliberate machinery, we have aggravated the disease rather than cured it. The object of short sessions is to expedite business and we have been getting it at a great cost. We do not want to expedite business, but to provide some method for mature judgment and deliberation."

The project which has been launched to so provide that the legislature meet once in two years is frowned upon by Delegate Hinman, who is of the opinion that the great industrial and commercial development of New York state necessitates a great mass of legislation and that the customs of other states relative to its legislative conduct should and has no bearing upon the law making body of this state.

"The legislative method has not permitted keeping pace with the development of our commercial and industrial advancement," continues Mr. Hinman. "No private business uses the methods of a century ago. New and improved methods are adopted to meet the changing conditions. The new situation, so far as legislative method is concerned, has not been met, and the result is that the original trust in legislatures has disappeared and they have been distrusted."

When Delegate Hinman first declared that one of the most important of his proposed amendments to the constitution would be that which would require a year through consideration of legislative matters, his declaration was mildly criticised. His attention was called to the fact that under the present order of things, many months are required for members of the senate and assembly to conclude their business. This situation, Mr. Hinman thinks, is the mere result of shirking legislation in the early part of the year and then finally striving to make up for lost time.

That there should be no effort made to finish up the legislative work in a given time such as one hundred days, generally accepted as the duration of a legislative session, is the contention of Mr. Hinman. He is convinced that the proper way to legislate for the entire people of the state is to meet exigencies as they arrive. To accomplish this he says that bills should be introduced each month during the entire year. "More men will find it possible to give up a definite week every month than you can find who will give up the time for a continuous service of four or five months broken only by hasty and unsatisfactory visits home at week ends," he predicts.

By amending the constitution so as to provide for a year round legislature, Mr. Hinman believes that there would be no congestion of unfinished business, in that the unfinished of one month would go over to the next.

Fourth Victim of Tragedy.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—George H. Jones, wealthy garage owner and a leader in church activity in the suburb of Maywood, died today, the fourth victim of the tragedy that followed his wife's starting divorce proceedings against him. Margaret Bitner, who was named in Mrs. Jones's complaint and who helped Jones to escape after he had killed his wife, brother-in-law and sister-in-law late yesterday, wept when told Jones had died from a self-inflicted bullet wound. The girl is held by the police.

Yacht Club's Cruise.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New London, Ct., Aug. 3.—Something like 200 yachts sailed out of this port today on the first day's run of the New York Yacht club's cruise. A fresh northwest breeze was blowing. Chief interest centered in the day's sail of the Resolute and Vanitie, the American cup defenders which were the only yachts in full racing trim. The Resolute succeeded in crossing the line first and was still leading the Vanitie as they disappeared from view.

Food Entering Mexico City.

GERMANS AGAIN BOMBARD SOISSONS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Aug. 3.—Soissons has again been bombarded by the Germans with their heavy, long range guns. The cannonade was described by the French war office today in an official communique as "extremely violent."

The French position at Les Eparges in the Woevre district, 12 miles northeast of Saint Mihiel, has also been shelled by the Germans.

German attacks against the French position at Barren Kopf, in the Vosges, though very severe, were successfully repulsed.

(Soissons lies at the junction of the Oise and Aisne rivers, about 52 miles northeast of Paris. It has been intermittently bombarded for several weeks.)

MARINES PREVENT HAITIEN OUTBREAK

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Aug. 3.—Only the presence of the United States marines and machine guns from the cruiser Washington mounted in the streets prevents another revolutionary outbreak here, for the city is seething with excitement.

Haiti is still without a president to succeed Vilbrun Guillaume, who was assassinated. There is a deadlock in congress. Revolutionary leaders are declaring in favor of Dr. Rosalvo Bobo, who brought about the present uprising, but influential members of the chamber of deputies are opposing him on the ground that his election will only prolong the turbulence.

The cruiser Washington has left for Cape Haitien.

The battleship Connecticut is expected here late today or tomorrow from Hampton Roads with marines.

VILLA'S TROOPS BADLY BEATEN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 3.—A cablegram received here today from Vera Cruz announced that Villa's flying column under General Fierros, which was defeated at Pachuca, was completely destroyed yesterday between Irapuato and Quertaro when it was caught between a detachment sent south by General Obregon and the pursuing army of General Dieguez.

General Obregon reported that he had captured 3,000,000 rounds of ammunition and an immense quantity of other supplies in a battle south of Torreon.

BOMBS DROPPED ON STRASSBURG

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Geneva, Aug. 3.—A squadron of French aeroplanes attacked Strassburg, the capital of lower Alsace today and dropped 25 bombs. Extensive damage is believed to have been done. Strassburg is an important link in the line of Rhine defenses and is one of the most strongly fortified German cities in the western part of the empire.

Messena Strike Situation.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Malone, Aug. 3.— The strike situation at the plant of the Aluminum Company of America at Messena was threatened with a more serious turn today when the Italian leaders declared they would oppose a settlement and set at work to arouse the strikers to hostile action. The three companies of national guardsmen sent to Massena to preserve order, will be maintained there until the outlook is better.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—But Father Can Hardly Last Many More Rounds

BY F. LEIPZIGER

Not "Dry," Thirsty

KANSAS has in force every measure that man can devise to prohibit the use of liquor. It is not only "dry," but a very thirsty state, as statistics will show:

In Shawnee county (very "dry") 95,561 quarts of strong liquor were purchased for individual use during the month of September, 1913. Of this amount 90,062 quarts were received in Topeka, a city of 45,000 and the capital of the state---just half a gallon for each man, woman and child. In Tecumseh, 100 population, the express agent reported, according to law, that 1,627 quarts were received during September, 1913, or 48 gallons to each person during the year.

There'll be no "dryness" hereabout so long as patrons insist on having

CHARITY COMMISSIONERS.

Routine Business at Regular Monthly Meeting on Monday.

The Commissioners of Charity have a balance on hand in the treasury of $4,199.47 to carry on the work of the board until February, when they will receive their annual appropriation from the city, according to the report of Superintendent Thomas H. Edmonston submitted at the regular monthly meeting held on Monday evening at the city hall. President Waterbury presided with Commissioners Stock, Davis and Marquart and Superintendent Edmonston present. Only routine business was transacted and the meeting was brief.

Superintendent Edmonston's report for July was as follows:

Balance in city treasury, July 6	$5,749 28
Deposited with city treasurer July 31	48 80
	$5,798 08
Amount of bills audited this date	1,598 61
Balance on hand	$4,199 47

The number of inmates in City Home today is 56, of which 38 are male and 18 female.

The Kingston City Hospital report for July showed 25 cases with 162 days' treatment.

Superintendent Edmonston also submitted reports showing amount expended for out door relief. The amount expended for groceries and provisions given out from the City Home direct for July was $64.11, as follows:

First ward	$9 00
Third ward	7 61
Sixth ward	10 50
Seventh ward	18 00
Ninth ward	6 00
Tenth ward	10 00
Eleventh ward	1 50
Thirteenth ward	1 50
	$64 11

Coal given out direct by commissioners amounted to $3.40 in the Eighth ward.

The amount expended for groceries and provisions given out from the City Home for work in July was $21.83, of which $15.91 was in the Third ward and $5.92 in the Sixth ward.

Meals given out for work from the City Home during July amounted to $10, of which $3.50 was in the Third ward and $6.50 in the Sixth ward.

The total amount expended for outside relief during July was $99.34.

The meeting then adjourned.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

Waist 1292. Skirt 1291—A Pretty Summer Dress Comprising Ladies' Waist With Chemisette and Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths, and Ladies' Shirred Skirt that May be Made in Regulation or Short Length.

As here shown dotted dimity in pink and white was used, with a chemisette of swiss embroidery. The skirt may be gathered at the waist or finished with rows of corded shirrings to hip depth. The waist has a prettily shaped front and close fitting sleeves, finished with a smart cuff. The sleeve in short length has a turn back cuff. Pattern 1292 supplies the waist. It is made in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The Skirt Pattern 1291 is cut in 6 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure. To make the entire dress of one material will require 8¾ yards of 27 inch material for a medium size. The skirt measures 3¼ yards at the foot in regulation length.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps, by the Freeman Pattern Department. Be sure to state size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

EGYPTIENNE "STRAIGHTS" CIGARETTES

Critically examine a package of "STRAIGHTS" side by side with a package of any Turkish cigarettes selling at a much higher price. Compare the full oval size, fine workmanship and perfect smoking condition. Then smoke "STRAIGHTS" and you'll recognize the exquisitely mild flavor and rich aroma of high-grade 100% Pure Turkish tobacco. "STRAIGHTS" is a strictly high-class Turkish cigarette in every way.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY 10 for 10c

DUTCH AUCTION!

We have seven Hall Settees, all in oak, that sell at from $10 to $30 each regularly. They take up considerable floor space which we can utilize more profitably for the display of new Fall merchandise. To accomplish our purpose and to close out the Settees in quick order, we are going to hold one of our popular Dutch Auctions. The Settees have been placed in one of our show windows. The original prices are placed on a piece of cardboard, and each day they are marked down 50 cents until the Settees are sold.

Watch this window display closely, and when the prices have been reduced to the point at which you feel inclined to buy, step into the store and clinch your bargain. But watch out that "the other fellow" doesn't "beat you to it."

PLAN TO RESTORE ORDER IN MEXICO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Restoration of a constitutional government in Mexico within 60 days has been determined on by President Wilson. That is the real reason for the conference arranged for Thursday afternoon between the diplomatic representatives of the Latin-American powers and Secretary of State Lansing. It was learned this afternoon that the U. S. has arranged a tentative plan which will be discussed at this conference and which, if accepted, may end the troubles of Mexico.

According to the best advices obtainable the chief proposition will be the immediate recognition of a temporary provisional president, who will not be Carranza, Villa or Zapata. He is to be a former member of Madero's cabinet in order that legitimate succession can be provided for, inasmuch as it is recognized that Huerta's assumption of power never was legal. As it is conceded that no man who served under Madero could secure the support of the elements necessary to make his administration a success, it is expected that the A. B. C. representatives in the conference will suggest that the candidate first selected be a figurehead pure and simple. He will simply be proclaimed President if the program can be arranged and will then name the man agreed on for the endorsement of the U. S. and the South American powers as minister of foreign affairs. Under the Mexican constitution as there will be no vice-president the minister of foreign affairs succeeds to the presidency when it is vacant. And it will become vacant almost immediately if the plans that it is hoped to perfect are carried out.

Secretary Lansing stated today that the conference was called on the invitation of the United States. President Wilson has had before him for two weeks the plan suggested by Duval West, who flatly declared against recognition of any of the factions and the plan of Leon Canova, chief of the newly organized division of Mexican affairs, which leaned toward recognition of Carranza. Both of these plans agree on the necessity of starting with a provisional president who was a member of Madero's cabinet. But whether the permanent provisional president shall be Carranza, or a man of his selection; or a man backed by Villa and Zapata will be the great problem before the conference.

It is understood at the conference the views will be asked of Canova and other officials of the state department who are familiar with Mexican affairs. Inasmuch as the president is anxious that all of the South American republics agree on a method which will have the support of this government, it is not expected that Thursday's conference will be decisive. It will probably be devoted to a frank exchange of views, after which each of the diplomatic representatives will communicate the consensus to his home government and will then ask for its co-operation in arriving at the final decision. In the meanwhile the various juntas here are endeavoring to secure favorable consideration of the claims of their chiefs.

In this connection the Carranza people declare that the first chief of the Constitutionalists has ninety thousand veteran soldiers at his command and is independent of the United States for ammunition. They point out that he has erected an ammunition plant at Vera Cruz which turns out eighteen thousand cartridges a day. This plant is being enlarged and in a fortnight its capacity will be 24,000 cartridges. Because of this the Carranzistas will inform the South American diplomats that Carranza is "the man on horseback" in Mexican affairs.

Dispatches from Vera Cruz today stated that the wire communication with Mexico City has been restored and that railroad communication has partly been reopened. Carranza assured Consul Silliman today that he will do everything possible to relieve the food situation without delay.

The state department is incensed over the action of the Villista officials in taking over the goods of practically all of the foreign merchants in Chihuahua. Although it is stated by Villistas that the goods were not confiscated, but that "compensation" was given, the advices to the department indicate that the "compensation" was in Villista currency and practically worthless.

The mining and smelting interests in Chihuahua have been ordered by the Villista government to meet in Chihuahua City on August 9, to "discuss methods of operation." The regulations already in effect have resulted in practical confiscation of enormous quantities of property already and mining men have appealed to the administration to see that this conference is attended by a representative of the state department who will protect their rights.

Secretarly Lansing stated that he planned to confer with Arnold Shanklin this evening on Mexican affairs. The nature of the conference, he stated, would be confidential and no statement of the various subjects discussed or of the result would be made public.

Assistant Secretary of War Breckenridge discussed with the secretary of state today the recent violation of American territory when a Carranza aviator flew over American soil at Nogales, but it was agreed that no action would be taken in the matter.

A Good, Sensible Cottage of Six Rooms. No. 130.

This house is designed to be developed in shingled and stucco sides, or in shingles alone if preferred. The latter is a trifle the cheaper—either will give a pleasing effect. All the roofs have a wide overhang, entirely clear with the exception of the front and side porches, which are supported by heavy ornamental brackets. The side piazza, 8x10.6 feet, has a balustrade at each side, the front being open. The front door has two panels, one of wood and one of glass. The side doors, both upstairs and down, are entirely of glass, small panes being used. Group windows are arranged for wherever practicable.

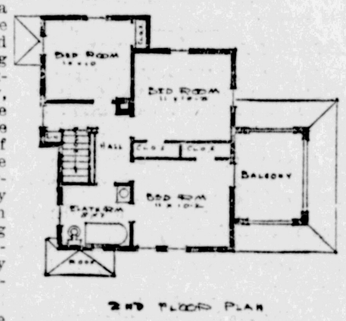

1ST FLOOR PLAN

Those who prefer not to step directly from the porch into the living room will appreciate the vestibule. The living room, to the right, is 15x11.6 feet. A triple group window is the feature of the front of the living room. French doors to the piazza of the second side, another pair of French doors to the dining room set off the third, while the open staircase, wide landing, ornamental balustrade and newel post make an attractive picture viewed across the room through the open doors from the piazza.

The dining room, 11x10.6 feet, has two sets of group windows. Ample wall space is allowed for a china closet, buffet or sideboard. The kitchen, 10x10 feet, may be entered either from the dining room or living room. Even the kitchen has its extremely large double group window, beneath which is the sink. A store closet utilizes the space beside the chimney. Stairs lead directly out of the kitchen to the basement, these being just beneath the main stairway, to economize space. A pantry with china closet, etc., opens from the kitchen just beside the dining room door, while in the corner another door admits to a rear entry with refrigerator space, thence outdoors.

The little jog at the left of the head of the stairs on the second floor is finished off as a linen closet. There are three bedrooms with closets, opening off the large hall, 10x10, 11x10.2 and 11x10.2 feet, also a bathroom. The front chamber is particularly attractive. It has direct access to the bathroom, while a casement door opens on the other side to a large railed balcony. With slight modifications this could be made into an excellent sleeping porch.

Moonlight Sail to Saugerties.

The moonlight sail to Saugerties on the Elihu Bunker, which was planned for last Wednesday evening by the St. James Epworth League but was postponed on account of the rain, will be held tomorrow evening, the boat leaving the dock at 7 o'clock promply. Candy, crackerjacks and soft drinks will be sold on the boat. While the moonlight sail is one of the annual events given by the young people of St. James's Church, the destination is a new one. There will be plenty of time for the short walk up to the village of Saugerties and a visit to the stores, where ice cream is sold, returning time enough to catch the trolley home. These sails have always been well attended and the young people are sure that the one this year to Saugerties will be one of the events of the season and so they are promising all who attend a good time and a pleasant sail up the Hudson.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 3, 1915.

Away back in the days when Mexico entered upon her present troubles it was suggested by The Freeman that the only sensible policy was for the United States to ask the co-operation of the other republics of this hemisphere in pacifying that turbulent country. This was not, however, the desire of President Wilson, who wishes to manage everything himself, and everybody knows what a mess he has made of the situation. It is probably due to the influence of clear-headed Secretary Lansing that this obvious remedy is now be tried. A conference has been summoned of representatives of the United States, Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Bolivia, Uruguay and Guatemala, and there is a fair prospect that all these nations will unite in some sort of effective intervention. At the time of the Boxer troubles all the civilized nations sent troops to Pekin, and the results were happy. Mexican patriotism might be expected to be aroused by the unaided intervention of one country, but when half of the world unites to enforce order only lunatics would resist. Another advantage of co-operation is that it prevents suspicion of territorial aggrandisement by any nation. If this policy had superseded "watchful waiting" two years ago, Mexico would have been a fit place to live in for the last one and three-quarter years. The proverb "better late than never" furnishes but cold comfort.

The demoralizing effect of the war upon national honor is exhibited in an interview with the Premier of Bulgaria in which he asserts brazenly that his country is about to enter the conflict and is only waiting to see which side will grant it the best terms. This was following the pernicious example of Italy. To a sane and unbiased mind it appears that both of these nations should have taken sides long ago as a matter of principle or have remained neutral until the occurrence of some radical change in conditions. It is difficult to see any great moral difference between a nation which sells out in this way and the gunman who shoots for hire men who have never injured him. Belligerents have always availed themselves of the services of crooks and traitors, but they are not usually over-scrupulous when the day of settlement arrives. Let us watch and see whether or not honesty is the best policy in such cases.

According to Government reports the cotton crop this year will be about one-fourth smaller than that of last year. Thus it will be seen that the noisy efforts of a year ago to induce the planters to raise no cotton at all came to nothing. The reasonable reduction noted indicates the spread of the common-sense method of diversifying crops, so that the farmer may not be wholly ruined by the failure of any one of them. In opposing Government paternalism, Thomas Jefferson once remarked that if the farmers sowed and reaped in accordance with instructions from Washington the nation would soon starve, but if he were alive today he would be forced to admit that the periodical advice and information sent out from the national bureau of agriculture has educated producers with the result that the margin between the consumer and starvation and nakedness has perceptibly increased.

The inhabitants of the death house in Sing Sing did not do a very smart thing in issuing a document expressing their disapproval of capital punishment. It served only to show that murderers prefer life imprisonment to death—a point regarding which there has been much discussion in the past—and since one of the objects of the punishment of criminals is to deter other persons from imitating them, most people are likely to conclude that the more distasteful penalty is the better one from the standpoint of society. Since many states and countries have tried experiments, it ought to be possible to determine just what form of punishment does most to discourage crime, but such statistics as we have been able to examine are so contradictory in their indications that it is unsafe to draw conclusions. Yet we are under the impression that capital punishment will soon be generally abolished. If we may judge from literature, the hangman used to be a very popular man in certain circles, whereas he is now shunned. In recent executions in this State the name of the man who had to turn the electric switch has been concealed from the public, and it would be difficult to find a man to undertake the job if his name were published. This feeling of abhorrence is general. Capital punishment must disappear for the same reason that torture did—not because it is not in some cases deserved, but because the heart is lacking to inflict it.

WOMAN AS A FIGHTER.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

Last evening as the shadows were settling down, a little group sat interestedly listening to the story, at first hand, of how the women in the West a few years ago laid aside their reluctance to fight and, metaphorically speaking, shouldered their guns with the men in active service in the protection of homes and business houses.

It was at the time when forest fires were ravaging the country and when we in the comfortable East read of whole villages threatened and of others laid low by the flames that spread so disastrously. The speaker lived in a town that had suffered very sharply when the fires reached out from the blazing forests and left a mass of ruins as they went. And she told how women who in ordinary times were of the shrinking, or perhaps the kid-glove variety, quailed not at all. If it meant all-night activity on the roofs, they were there, equipped to save their homes and towns from the hungry flames; and if it meant extinguishing incipient fires that sprang up unexpectedly, they were on hand to beat out the blaze, and while rangers and homesteaders were falling in the fight, with courage and self-abnegation that make us falter just to hear about, every women in the town who was able to work carried a heavy part of the burden in those weary days in the West. And though, except in occasional instances, they did not penetrate the depths of the forests where the flames were fiercest, and where men were fighting their advance, they valiantly and conspicuously helped save the day.

She, one of the workers herself, told of one woman who seemed to be everywhere in a minute, doing exactly the right, the most-needed thing, a mere mite of femininity, weighing scarcely ninety pounds.

Women are not supposed to be great fighters—and one admits they are not as the word is generally used—but there is more than one effective way to shoulder a gun, and if they do not always carry it in approved masculine fashion, what matter, if, when the day is over, needed work has earned the plaudit, "well done?"

However "uncertain, coy and hard to please" women may be in brighter, more peaceful times, when the days of storm and stress are at hand, they do not shirk, though they may not buckle on the armor of active combat.

A friend once asked Wendell Phillips the source of his unfailing courage to face frantic mobs, and he drew from his pocket a slip of paper, small and worn, and as a preface to its contents told of a single incident. He had been escorted by soldiers to Faneuil Hall, where he was about to address an excited, furious audience; and he admitted that fear was fast making in-roads upon the calmness he needed. As he approached his opening words, a messenger handed him a little note from his wife, bearing this warning:

"Wendell, no shilly-shallying tonight. Your wife, Ann."

It may be said that in the safe shelter of home it was easy to write words calling for courage in another, and that it was too idle to be effective. But Mrs. Phillips was an invalid, and in the enforced retirement of her room knew no other way to shoulder a gun than to strengthen the dwindling courage of her husband in behalf of the cause very dear to both. And that, as he tells it, was in part the secret of his courage, though one would not suspect a man of his undaunted spirit ever to be swept by the fierceness of terror. But perhaps it was all the more to his credit if he did feel the fear and the mob never knew it. And if Mrs. Phillips was able to help him along without any gun it was all the better for that, so long as her aim reached its mark.

By the severer tests, some of our women are not entitled to be called heroines or to rank as great; but viewed through eyes that see only the patient, self-effacing work that brings neither applause nor glory, there are the very elements of bravery that would make the shouldering of a gun second nature, if a gun were needed. Figuratively, it is shouldered often enough and it would be in evidence literally, if need be, though one hopes not in the ways it is being used over the sea.

In the days when our forefathers landed on the bleak, rocky shores in quest of full liberty they were beset with trials that called out their best mettle—and they had it in glorious degree. But our foremothers were not wanting in the same hardy courage; and some of them, delicate and tenderly nurtured as they had been in their sheltered homes, learned, in the rugged life before them, to meet danger unflinchingly and to look disaster in the face with bravery equal to that of husbands and fathers.

And when a mother does her full duty in the home, the quality and usefulness of her citizenship cannot fairly be questioned. Her weapons are only those of unceasing labor and devotion; but they conceal in their depths a tremendous force of self-denying, patience-trying work.

We can for a while get along with a questionable degree of success in business or in other outside fields of endeavor, and trust to changing fortune to mend the breaks; but if a mother fails to make good in her own home the influence of the failure passes down a long line and affects the quality of citizens sent out into the world. If a nation would take its its place in the foreground, it must have the right kind of homelife, and it must look to woman to see that it is right.

In truth, there is more than one kind of a gun, and more than one brand of fighter.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Messenger boys have no dress uniform, have they?" "No; theirs is strictly a fatigue uniform."—Baltimore American.

"Where'd you get the shanty over your eye?" "I just met the little kid I used to lick when we went to school together."—Houston Post.

The Wife—"Do you know that you have not kissed me for over a week?" Absent-minded Professor—"Eh! Then I wonder who in the world I have been kissing."—Boston Transcript.

"I kept telling my girl I wasn't good enough for her. I made a mistake." "How so?" "Now she is beginning to look around to see if she can't annex something better."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Father," said the small boy, "what's the difference between a patriot and a jingo?" "A patriot, my son, is willing to fight on principle; a jingo wants somebody else to fight on general principles."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Kicker—"This song ad. says, 'Try this on your piano.' I wonder if it's worth while?" Kicker—"Get the neighbors to try it on theirs first. If it does their piano any good, we'll see if it can cure ours."—Judge.

Plenty of Choice.

Will Irwin, the war correspondent, supped in London recently with Lincoln Springfield, editor.

"Lord Kitchener," said Mr. Irwin, "told a young lady some years since that if he ever married, his choice would be a German widow."

"Well, he's making plenty of them now," chuckled Mr. Springfield.—New York Times.

Meeting the Emergency.

From a banquet of ministers Tit-Bits picks up this story, told by a clergyman:

"One of the members of my church has instilled into his family the belief that the collection is a vitally important part of the service. Consequently his little boy Thomas never comes to church without his contribution.

"One Sunday, as the elders began to take up the collection at the morning service, Thomas looked along the pew to see if the various members of the family were provided with a contribution. Noticing a guest of his sister's empty-handed, he whispered:

"'Where is your money?'

"'I have none,' was the reply.

"Time was short and the necessity great. In a flash the little fellow met the emergency by saying:

"'Here, take mine. That'll pay for you, and I'll get under the seat.'"

On His Honeymoon.

Prof. Warren M. Beidler of Bethel, Pa., in a recent address made the striking assertion that the American people—money mad—taught their children how to earn a living, but not how to live. "There is no viler, and also no vainer, ambition," said Professor Beidler to a reporter, "than that of the American boy to become a millionaire. What percentage of our boys do become millionaires? It would take a good many decimals to work out that, believe me. The boy who sets his heart on a million fares like the washerwoman who set her heart on the cross-eyed aeronaut. 'I hear you married that cross-eyed aeronaut last week,' said a friend. 'Yes, I did,' replied the washerwoman, as she rocked back and forth over her tub. 'Yes, I married him, and I gave him $500 out of my buildin' association to start an airship factory.' 'That so?' said the friend. 'Where is he now?' 'I don't know,' said the washerwoman. 'I'm waitin' for him to come back from his honeymoon.'"—New York Tribune.

A Hard Come Back.

Henry Ward Beecher was upon one occasion in the midst of an eloquent political speech when some wag in the audience crowed like a cock. It was done to perfection, and the audience was in a gale of laughter. Even the great orator's friends felt uneasy at his reception of the interruption. But Mr. Beecher stood perfectly calm. He stopped speaking, listened till the crowing ceased and while the audience was laughing he pulled out his watch. Then he said: "That's strange. My watch says it is only 10 o'clock. But there can't be any mistake about it. It must be morning, for the instincts of the lower animals are absolutely infallible."—Rochester Times.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

August 3, 1895.—H. V. Kerr and Miss Alice Towne married at the home of the bride on Clinton avenue.

August 3, 1905.—Explosion in mixing house of Nitro Powder Company at Mingo Hollow.

James W. Sheridan died at his home in Gardiner.

Barn of Floyd Gillespie of Marbletown struck by lightning and destroyed.

Fatally Burned at Glasco.

Nora Ruth, the six year old daughter of Mrs. James Canaley of Glasco, was fatally burned in the yard of her home on Sunday afternoon. The little girl with some other children were lighting some punk when her clothing caught fire. Dr. Krom attended her and did all that was possible to save her life.

Dr. Swinburne's New Methods Cure Chronic Diseases

Dr. A. H. Swinburne's wonderful success in curing chronic diseases is due to his improved and original methods of treatment. For many years he has devoted his entire time to the study and treatment of those diseases which resist ordinary treatment. Dr. Swinburne does not believe in giving opiates or other strong drugs which merely produce temporary relief, but he gives treatment to reach the foundation of the trouble and produce permanent cures. In the treatment of Stomach Liver and Intestinal disorders Dr. Swinburne's treatment will produce remarkable results and enable patients who have suffered for years from indigestion or irregular bowel functions to obtain relief. Stomach Trouble is the cause of nine-tenths of all sickness, and unless the stomach performs its functions properly, you cannot enjoy health. In the treatment of many other diseases Dr. Swinburne's success in curing is largely due to the fact that he treats the stomach at the same time, which proves the quickest means of building up the system, after which the constitutional disease will readily yield to the specific treatment given and health will result.

Diseases being successfully treated are Catarrhal Troubles, Kidney Diseases, Dropsy or Heart Affections, Shortness of Breath or Asthma, Chronic Coughs or Lung Diseases, Neuritis, Paralysis, Neurasthenia or other Nerve Troubles, Eczema and blood diseases, Special Weakness, Debility, Malnutrition, Private Diseases.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

Surrogate Gill has issued a final decree in the estate of Archie McLaughlin, late of the city of Kingston, releasing the administrators, Archie McLaughlin, Jr., and Amelia McLaughlin, from all further responsibility.

A decree was also issued relieving John N. Boyd, administrator of the estate of Celia Boyd, late of the city of Kingston, from all further responsibility arising from the estate. Robert Groves, attorney for the administrator.

An accounting of the proceedings of Edward Young, administrator of the estate of William Cubbard, late of the town of Marlborough, was filed in the surrogate's office and a petition for a judicial settlement was at the same time filed. C. M. Woolsey, attorney for the administrator.

SCUTARI DESCRIBED.

Albanian City Again Captured by the Montenegrin Army.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—After weeks of silence, the news comes that the persistent little army of Montenegro has taken to itself Scutari, the principal city and fortress of Albania, which fell before the victorious Montenegrins in the first Balkan war, and from which the soldiers of the Mountain Kingdom were compelled to retire by action of Austria-Hungary. The Montenegrins have had considerable practice in attacking Scutari through their 500 years of intermittent struggle with the Turks, and all of the problems involved in an advance by the side of the Lake of Scutari to the city between the mountains are doubtless thoroughly know to the present military leader of the tiny State. A description of this city, a strategic point for the domination of Northern Albania, is given in the most recent statement of the National Geographic Society, issued in its series of war-geography studies. The statement reads.

"Scutari has military value as commanding Northern Albania, and as being a key position on the northern head of the plain that stretches from the town into the country's interior. It is th e most important city in the newly created Albanian nation, having a population of more than 32,000, and some transit and export trade. It has lost considerable of its commerce, however, to Salonica and other neighboring ports which enjoy the advantages of good railway connections. Another disadvantage under which Scutari suffers is the lack of all port facilities upon its convenient seacoast.

"Situated beyond the flat, fever-laden coast lands and just beyond the coastal hills, Scutari is effectively closed away from the world, even for Albania. It is built upon the southeastern shore of Lake Scutari, near the confluence of the Drin and Boyana Rivers. The Adriatic lies little more than 14 miles to the west. The greater part of the Lake of Scutari since the settlement brought about by the first Balkan War, is contained within the Montenegrin borders. The city of Scutari lies just across the Montenegrin boundary, but a short, evening-hour's walk away. The lake is surpassingly beautiful; its waters are billiantly clear, the growths upon its banks luxurious, while the heavy-shouldered mountains, which give it a setting like a gem in a ring, greatly increase the effect of the picture. There are numerous, heavily-populated breeding grounds by its shores for aquatic fowl, and the lake itself, is well stocked with fish.

"The country all around the city is wild as is most of the area of Albania and very sparsely settled. The individual Albanian builds him a home, a hut, in the forest on the spur of some hill, near enough to a city to permit to send his women folk for supplies but seldom near enough to others to aid in forming a village. Very few paths that can satisfactorily be classed as roads run through this country. The easiest way to progress from Scutari is along the plain, which extends from across the Montenegrin frontier south to Alessio. It is largely owing to the wild, unchartered mountain-and-ravine ways of Albania that the Turks were never able completely to subdue this people, but were forced to govern them by a diplomatic distribution of favor.

"Oriental and picturesque in appearance, there is, however, little to suggest well-being or wealth in the Albanian metropolis. Its bazaars and mosques are interesting, and its old Venetian citadel perched upon its high crag is a romantic object. The citadel and other fortifications of the town are long out of date, and would offer little or no resistance to modern artillery. Mountains crowd in upon the town, and there is danger of floods during heavy rains or sudden thaws. The exports of Scutari are grains, wool, hides, skins, tobacco and sumach. It imports textiles, provisions, metal products and arms. Arms and cotton stuffs are manufactured. Arms are an important article of commerce in Albania; for, while the Albanian has accustomed himself to going without almost everything, he will not go without a rifle."

A Cure For the Blues.

Everyone is invited to attend the lawn party at Flatbush on August 5 and we will help drive the blues away. We will show you Mary Carey and her wedding day and a number of other things to make you laugh. The usual good things including home made cake, ice cream and home made candy will be on sale at a price that everybody can afford to pay. There will be plenty of other good things. The lawn party will be held on the parsonage grounds Thursday evening and if stormy the next fair evening. The party is under the management of people whose names begin with C D F H K and L. Proceeds for the benefit of the church.

The entertainment and picture show given as a benefit to Ellenville Martial Corps last week was repeated at the Casino Monday evening. By request Isaac Silverman sang, "The Little House upon the Hill," and "I'm A Lonesome Melody"—Richard Millard sang "All for the Love of a Girl." The entire Martial Corps were out on parade.

The boarding season in this section is at its height. Saturday's trains brought to the Ellenville station the largest numbers of people of this season and they were distributed among the Hebrew and Christian boarding houses in the vicinity, while a number remained in Ellenville.

The town board has designated the polling place as follows: Dist. 1, Kimble Hose house; 2, Warren Hall; 3, Firemen's Hall, Ellenville; 4, Hoornbeek Engine House, Napanoch; 5, Pythian Hall, Kerhonkson; 6, Terbush Hall, Greenfield; 7, Martin's Hall, Lackawack.

Mrs. Henry Lapp entertained the members of the "Sewing Circle" of the Lutheran Church at her home on East Center street Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Florence Whattey is entertaining her friend, Miss Jeanette Devo, of Elmira, formerly of Ellenville.

Mrs. Annie Taft spent Sunday with Greenfield relatives.

Thomas H. Collins has had a neat asbestos roof put on his large tenant house on Center street.

The residence of Harry Wilklow has been repainted, which adds to Ellenville improvements.

Wood Divorce Suit.

Supreme Court Justice Morschauser has granted an order for counsel fee in the action for divorce brought by Caroline S. Wood against Alvin Wood of this city, but has denied a motion for alimony. The defendant is the proprietor of a grocery store on Washington avenue. The parties were married on April 15, 1914, by the Rev. P. N. Chase. The acts on which the suit is based were alleged to have been committed in this city. Judge Morschauser has allowed $200 fee to Frank W. Brooks, counsel for Mrs. Wood. Francis C. Merritt is attorney for Mr. Wood.

Hot Wave Broken.

The hot wave which has enveloped Kingston for the past few days was driven out of town on Monday evening by the arrival of a heavy rain storm which fell throughout the night and today and which brought with it a grateful drop in the temperature of thirty degrees. Thermometers which for several days have registered 96 degrees in the shade this noon registered but 66 degrees.

Signal Corps Detachment.

A detachment of the United States Army Signal corps passed through this city this morning with their radio-signal outfit on their way to Plattsburgh, N. Y., where they will assist in the instruction of the civilians now in camp there.

REAR ADMIRAL CAPERTON - STREET SCENE IN PORT AU PRINCE.
AMERICAN OFFICER AND SCENE OF SNIPING OF AMERICAN SAILORS.

The picture shows a typical street scene in Port au Prince, Hayti, and an insert of Rear Admiral Caperton. Two American sailors were killed by snipers when Real Admiral Caperton landed a party to protect Americans and foreigners in Port au Prince following the uprising which resulted in the lynching of president Guilliame Sam and other officials. Caperton has asked for reinforcements. More than 500 marines aboard the U. S. S. Connecticut are now speeding toward the scene of the trouble.

BRITISH WOMEN DEMAND TO BE ALLOWED TO MAKE MUNITIONS.

COUNT OKUMA.

OKUMA MAY REMAIN AS JAP PREMIER.

Count Okuma.

Tokio, Aug. 3.—Count Okuma, who resigned as premier last week following the investigation by the ministry of justice into the bribery charges growing out of the election last March, which it is alleged involved Viscount Oura, the minister of the interior, may be retained as premier by the Mikado to form a new cabinet. The entire Okuma cabinet resigned with Oura.

Okuma is known as "The Roosevelt of Japan," because of his great oratorical powers in election speeches.

NEUTRALITY OF AMERICAN RED CROSS

The following excerpts and sketches from letters sent out by the American Red Cross prove that organization to be not only decidedly neutral, but also thoroughly cosmopolitan in its workings and interests:

J. C. Weller, the organization's special agent at Eagle Pass, Texas, has sent telegraphic word of the starving conditions of the people in Monclova, Mexico, and also in Saltillo, where he reports the people as actually dying of starvation. At the time this word was sent, Mr. Weller was about to take a car load of corn and beans to these people who were at that time eating cactus. A letter further told of a family of seventeen persons, including grandchildren, who having lived in Mexico for eleven years had acquired property to the value of $60,000, consisting of about 800 acres of land and 400 head of cattle. About three months ago, first the Carranza and then the Villa troops camped near their place and they lost everything. Through the United States government, for this was an American family, they were brought, penniless into the states.

Reports of conditions of extreme chaos and dire need come from Mexico City. Mr. O'Connor, the Red Cross representative, now in Mexico City, says there is not a single government official with whom to deal, and the gravest concern is being felt by all, rich and poor, native and foreign, as to the change in currency and total depreciation of money which it had been supposed would hold its value. Women on every hand were seen carrying money in one hand and empty baskets, which their money could not fill for their starving families, in the other hand. Even thoroughly reputable bankers were seen on the streets trying to get food tickets as their money was of no use of them. Equally distressing conditions are reported as prevailing in the state of Sonora, Mexico, where a signed statement from some forty Mexican residents, mostly married men and heads of families, claim serious discrimination in the sale of the necessities of life. In the two stores run by the so-called government for the benefit of the poor in this town of some 12,000 inhabitants, not enough food can be bought to supply a single family at any time. The grain business is monopolized by the government, and the Yaquis are permitted to commit all sort of atrocities robbing and murdering entire families. The statement closes as follows:

"We do not want war. We desire to work in peace and save our families from starvation, even if the government does deny that hunger exists. This statement of the government is false, as we know that hunger exists and we feel sure that some cases of actual starvation have occurred."

Again word comes from Germany and Italy, thanking the American Red Cross for the aid being given by them. The German Red Cross expresses its sincere gratitude for hospital supplies sent them in large numbers and also for four motor ambulances, regarding which they write:

"We are particularly interested and pleased to know that the students of Yale and Harvard Universities, who represent the highest intelligence, are responsible for the gift of four ambulances." The Italian Red Cross is equally appreciative of the gift of 195 cases of hospital supplies received from the American Red Cross.

Along an entirely different line comes the word that two grand prizes, and lesser prizes and medals of merit have been awarded the American Red Cross by the superior jury of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. One of the grand prizes coming under the heading of social economy, was for a collective exhibit of activities in life-saving, nursing and hygiene. The other, under a Liberal Arts heading, was for a combined exhibit of surgical instruments, materials, etc. A gold medal was awarded for "Protection Against Floods," and a silver medal for "First Aid Equipment." Silver medals were also given to a number of individual officers and heads of departments of the American Red Cross.

Control of Plant Lice.

It is now too late to do very effective work in controlling plant lice in apple orchards; but fruit-growers should secure, read and file for reference early next spring, Bulletin 402 of the station at Geneva, which outlines a method for the control of these annoying and increasingly harmful pests.

Prompt, thorough work, at the proper time, is the only economical and efficient means of handling these apple aphids; for they are accessible to spray mixtures for only a very short time. When the buds first begin to show green at the tips the newly hatched lice, almost microscopic in size, cluster on these buds and can be readily reached and destroyed by free applications of nicotine solution, kerosene emulsion, or fish-oil soap solution. Only until the buds begin to open can success be expected, for with the spreading of the leaves the tiny lice crowd down into protected crevices and folds where spray mixtures do not penetrate.

Later treatments may do some good but the main reliance must be placed on this early spraying, for which the bulletin gives full directions, with illustrations of the buds showing the time to treat.

A post card request addressed to the Station will bring the bulletin.

SKIDDING CAR KILLS TWO PERSONS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rochester, Aug. 3.—Mrs. Lillian West and five year old Charles West, her nephew, of this city, were killed and George Abrams and Mrs. Abrams of Washington, D. C., Ruth West of Rochester, Mrs. John W. Ross, and John Harris, both of Rochester, were seriously injured this afternoon when the big touring car in which they were riding skidded on the highway and turned over two miles west of East Pembroke. Mrs. Abrams is the most seriously injured, her back being wrenched. Mrs. Ross, owner of the car, suffered from a rib fracture.

Publicity for School Needs.

Frank publicity in securing the cooperation of the community in the work of the schools is urged by W. S. Deffenbaugh, of the U. S. Bureau of Education in a report on "School Progress in the Smaller Cities," just issued.

"School boards that are managing the schools ably and honestly do not fear to turn on the searchlight," declares Mr. Deffenbaugh. "The sentiment is growing among school boards that the public should know how its money is expended. In the most progressive schools the board and the superintendent are presenting facts to the people either in printed reports, in newspaper articles, or by both.

"Some schoolmen, however, object to furnishing the newspapers with school information on the ground that they are thereby advertising themselves. A superintendent who was complaining about lack of interest among the parents in the schools of his city was asked whether he reported the progress of the schools through the local papers. He replied that he did not believe in advertising himself. He failed to grasp the idea that school news is not for the purpose of boosting a superintendent; besides being legitimate news, it calls attention to the needs of the work of the school so that the school may become more efficient.

"In several cities, as Fredonia, Kans., there is an educational issue of the local paper. In some other cities there are daily school news notes. On the whole, the public is becoming better informed regarding the schools than it was a few years ago. The tendency is toward greater publicity by means of printed reports and newspaper articles.

"That the schools can work to advantage through women's civic improvement clubs and through parent-teacher associations has been thoroughly demonstrated in many of the smaller cities. Such clubs are often instrumental in the introduction of kindergartens, manual training and domestic science. The superintendent of one school utilized the women's clubs of the city by asking that each club give some consideration to the question, What can be done to improve the efficiency of schools? Each club discussed the question and sent a representative to present to the teachers the ideas of the club. In the opinion of the superintendent of schools in that city, the plan aroused interest among the women of the city in better schools."

These and other plans for arousing interest in school work are discussed in Chapter IV, Vol. I of the 1914 report of the Commissioner of Education. This is obtained as a separate publication.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

Mooney & Scherer, proprietors of the Broadway garage, have dissolved partnership.

The monthly meeting of the board of governors of the Automobile Club of Ulster County was held on Monday evening at Shiels's Hotel at Lackawack. After the meeting a dinner was served which was up to the usual Shiels's standard. The board of governors and their wives and friends to the number of twenty were present. Nothing other than the usual routine business was transacted.

One Thing Pretty Sure.

"What is your opinion of this new cure? Do you think walking through the grass will make a person healthy?" asked the boarding-house lady at the dinner table. "Well, it seems to have made this beef pretty tough," replied the boarder, trying hard to cut his steak.

Slight Discord.

He—"What's the matter with your church choir? They don't seem to pull together." She—"Well, the tenor's in love with the soprano, who is in love with the basso, who is deeply infatuated with the alto, who loves the tenor, but is married to the organist!"—Judge.

REMINGTON STRIKE IN ILION FACTORY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Utica, Aug. 3.—The 2,000 employes of the Remington Arms Company who walked out of the big plant at Ilion yesterday and last night, following a dispute over wages, thereby tying up work on extensive war order contracts for the allies, are still idle today. The prospects for a speedy adjustment of the difficulty were not bright at noon. On the contrary it was reported that unless the idle employes and company officials reached an immediate adjustment on the wage dispute, the thousand or more mechanics remaining at their benches would join the walkout.

Charles C. Tyler, general manager of the Remington Company, who reached Ilion last night from Bridgeport Conn., where the Remington-U. M. C. Company has been having serious difficulties with its employes, was scheduled to meet a committee of the idle workmen this afternoon to discuss the situation. Pending the outcome of this conference neither Manager Tyler nor other Remington officials would make the statement as to the company's attitude.

FATTENING POULTRY.

How to Prepare Fowls and Broilers For Top Prices.

Fowls from western fattening houses are now selling on the eastern markets at about two cents a pound above the price of the ordinary eastern farm fowl, according to the statement of the poultry department at Cornell. This is said to be true because, in spite of storage and long shipment, they are specially fattened and come on the market in a plump and attractive condition.

There is no reason, according to the Cornell poultry experts, why the eastern farmer could not reap the benefits of the extra two cents a pound if he would take the pains to fatten broilers and fowls before selling them. It is pointed out that few people realize the loss on broilers and fowls due to placing them on the market in an unfattened condition. This loss is not due entirely to less pounds of actual flesh but to the difference in price because of inferior appearance and quality.

The farmer does not think of selling an extra hog or a veal calf in poor condition. They must first be fattened, it is pointed out, and the same rules should apply to poultry. While stuffing and crate fattening may not be practicable on the average farm, it is stated that the birds can be well prepared by pen fattening at very little trouble and expense.

How to Fatten Fowls.

The directions for fattening fowls on the farm, as given by the Department of Poultry Husbandry of the state college of agriculture, are as follows:

Confine the birds in a small and somewhat darkened pen allowing about two square feet for a mature fowl and one square foot for young chickens. Do not feed for the first twenty-four hours, then begin feeding rather scantily, increasing the amount gradually until at the end of two or three days they are getting all they will clean up in about twenty minutes, when fed regularly three times a day. This should continue for about two weeks which is ordinarily as long as the fowl can stand such heavy feeding, and at which time if the fowls were healthy and in good range condition, they should be full and plump along the keel and have heavy, firm drumsticks and thighs.

Preparation of Feed.

Three good fattening rations follow:

1. 100 pounds corn meal, 100 pounds buckwheat middlings, or ground buckwheat with hulls removed, 100 pounds red dog flour, 30 pounds beef scrap, 1 pound charcoal.

2. 100 pounds corn meal, 50 pounds wheat middlings, 50 pounds ground oats, 30 pounds beef scrap, 1 pound charcoal.

3. 100 pounds corn meal, 60 pounds wheat middlings, or red dog flour, 20 pounds beef scrap, ½ pound charcoal.

Not Sure of Herself.

Even members of the family had to look twice to be sure as to "who was who" of the twins. But they didn't put different colored hair ribbons on them until the day when grandma, coming into the living room, said to the small person looking out of the window, "Is it Josie or Rosie?" And the twin replied, "I fink it's Josie."

MILK INSPECTION.

Score Card Does Not Agree With Bacteriological Tests.

One of the most important bulletins on milk production distributed in some time is No. 398 of the New York Agricultural Experiment Station. Practically all of the milk inspection of cities and villages in New York state is based wholly or largely on the rating of the dairies on some score card system. Studies made by one of the station bacteriologists, however, show very conclusively that the different cards and systems used do not give similar ratings to the dairies when applied simultaneously to the same group of dairies. By one system the milk of 15 dairies out of 34 scored would be excluded from market, while by two other systems none of this milk would be shut out. By the first score cards only five of the dairies were credited with grade A or grade B milk, by the second system 16 dairies made milk in these two grades, while by the third system 29 of the 34 were producing a product falling in these two grades.

This disagreement is serious enough, but bacteriological examination of the milk from each of the dairies scored showed that none of the score card systems used graded the milk according to the bacteria counts. These counts, while not perfect indices to milk quality, are undoubtedly the best measure that we now have of the wholesomeness of milk.

Milk showing the lowest bacteria count—giving less than 10,000 per cubic centimeter—would have been excluded from market by one score card rating, while by the other two cards it could have been sold only as grade B pasteurized. The next dairy, with a bacteria count of only 55,000, could have sold its milk only as grade C by one card and but little better by the other two. In score on the cards this dairy was only about 5 per cent above the poorest by bacteria count, which apparently contained 1,000 times as many bacteria.

On the other hand, the dairy scored highest on all three cards and therefore rated as producing grade A milk, was among the poorest, bacteriologically considered, giving a count of over 4,000,000; and No. 2 on the cards was only No. 16 by bacteria count.

These discrepancies run all through the list and indicate most astonishingly that if the presence of bacteria in smaller or larger numbers is an index to the wholesomeness of milk, the score cards systems do not reliably indicate the sanitary quality of the milk produced in the dairies scored.

These studes and the facts they bring out demand attention, not only from milk producers, milk handlers and milk and dairy inspectors, but also from those whose health may be at stake, the milk consumers of the state.

The bulletin may be secured without expense by a post card request sent to the station at Geneva.

Boiceville Reunion.

The Labor Day Reunion of all the former and present residents of Boiceville and vicinity, after the success of the past two years, is to be held again this year on the same day. Although the grove has come into the possession of Catholina Lambert, he has gladly entered into the spirit o fthe occasion and has dedicated it for this day each year to the use of all the old residents of the vicinity. He has, with admirable public spirit, and at considerable cost, built a new road to the grove, has given it a thorough overhauling and has increased its many charming attractions for the great occasion. Notice of the meeting has been sent to all the addresses known, but there are many who must accept this public invitation to be present in the spirit in which it is given and be there with the rest. It is hoped that this year a permanent organization of all the old residents of the reservoir district will be made and officers elected, so that this meeting may become an annual occasion for the getting together of all the old friends of the district. It is hoped that the railroad company will be good enough to stop one train each way at a point nearest the grove, as it has kindly done on each former occasion. Everyone is expected to provide their own eats and drinks and everybody will be heartily welcome from whatever quarter of the globe they may come. This will be no formal affair; every one is expected to wear a cheery countenance and to treat everybody else in the spirit of happiness and friendship; so let nothing stop you from being present on this great occasion in a beautiful place, among the best people of the earth.

Eighteen Thousand Libraries.

There are over 18,000 regularly established libraries in the United States, containing more than 75,000,000 volumes, according to statistics just compiled by the Uniter States bureau of education. The number of volumes is an increase of 20,000,000 since 1908.

Of the 2,849 libraries containing 5,000 volumes or over, 1,844 are classified as "public and society libraries," and 1,005 are school and college libraries. Public and society libraries have an aggregate of over fifty million volumes, with seven million borrowers' cards in force; 1,446 of these libraries were entirely free to the public.

Libraries reporting from 1,000 to 5,000 volumes numbered 5,453, of which 2,188 were public and society libraries, and 3,265 school libraries. These libraries contained 11,689,942 volumes. Another group of still smaller libraries, comprising those that reported from 300 to 1,000 volumes, increased the total by 2,961,007 volumes.

The distribution of library facilities is still uneven. Of the 1,844 public and society libraries reported for the entire United States, more than half were in the North Atlantic States, and they contained 24,637,921 volumes out of the total of fifty millions; and of the three million volumes added to library collections for the year 1913, almost one-half were for the same section. New York state had 7,842,621 volumes in her 214 libraries; Massachusetts, 7,380,024 in 288 libraries; Pennsylvania, 3,728,070; and Illinois, 3,168,765 volumes. Four-fifths of the borrowers' cards in use were in the North Atlantic and North Central states.

Library activity for the past year was marked, according to the bureau of education report, by "considerable extension of the branch system, particularly in the granting of library privileges on the part of cities to neighboring suburban communities; by further development of the country library plan in many states; and in general by a visible growth in the spirit of service that is characteristc of many of the formal educational institutions of today. The period of the library as a mere storehouse of books seems to be safely past; it has yielded to a period of direct community service."

FIELD OF SPORTS.

Notes of Baseball, Pugilism, and Other Lines of Athletics.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Packey McFarland and Mike Gibbons finally have agreed to come together. They will clash in a ten round bout in New York on September 11. They will weigh in at 147 pounds at three p. m. Packey will receive $17,500 and Gibbons $15,000. The purse will be deposited in a New York bank a week before the contest. Billy Joh of New York will referee the contest.

Oshkosh, Wis., Aug. 3.—Ad Wolgast today was credited with a knockout in his battle last night with Dauber Yeager. The affair was stopped in the seventh round because Yeager was practically all in and bleeding profusely.

Knowledge Gained by Experience.

During the last school year a teacher in the Indianapolis schools asked her pupils to tell her which was the most important, to keep the face or the teeth clean, and why. One of her small boys replied without a moment's hesitation: "Your teeth, 'cause they'll rot off, and your face won't."

HARDY SWATTED SWAN.

And it All Happened Beause of a Woman in the Case.

"To tell you the truth, your honor, there is a woman in the case. I got her part of the time and he has got her part of the time, and I am jealous," was the explanation offered by Frank Swan, a negro, this morning in recorder's court when he appeared to press the charge of assault in the third degree which he had entered against Charles Hardy, a negro employed on Hutton's brick yard at Kingston Point. Judge Brinnier at the close of the case said that he would not attempt to decide which man was entitled to the woman but he discharged Hardy and warned both of the colored gallants that they must leave each other severely alone.

Swan appeared before Acting Recorder Brinnier on Monday and lodged the complaint against his rival, stating at that time that Hardy had kicked him in the ribs and smashed him in the eye. Hardy was arrested later that day by Sergeant Hanley. This morning Swan retold his story and said he had gone out Sunday morning on a little fishing trip which had wound up with Hardy assaulting him and knocking him down but he was quick with his arms and had prevented Hardy from hitting him in the face except for the first blow that Hardy got in. Swan explained "Ah don't care about getting mah face marred up any more dan necessary."

Hardy on the other hand denied that he had kicked Swan but he had hit him with his fist but it was in self defense and he had two witnesses to prove it.

"Your honor" explained Swan, "This here man had the advantage of me 'cause I have been sick for some time and I can prove it by mah physician."

It was finally brought out that Swan and Hardy had an argument on Saturday night which led Swan to finally confess that there was a woman in the case which had caused all the trouble.

"STUFFY" McINNIS

CHIEFS WOULD SIGN MCINNIS OR SAIER.

"Stuffy" McInnis.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Charley Weegham is not satisfied with the Federal League ball club as it stands today, and said that he was going out to grab a hard hitting first baseman.

Also he asserted he would do all in his power to sign either "Stuffy" McInnis of the Athletics or Vic Saier of the Cubs. He is also seeking another infielder to use at second base.

Honors Were Even.

A woman who had some knowledge of baseball took a friend to a championship contest. "Isn't that fine?" said the first. "We have a man on every base." "Why, yes," said the friend, "and so have they."

GLASCO.

Glasco Aug. 2.—It was so hot on Saturday down at Washburn's store that Johnny Vorhauer, one of the clerks, hit upon a plan to work out in a practical way the hypothesis that one extreme follows another. So he hit the trail from out of the sweltering heat into the depths of the big ice cooler. He hardly began to realize the difference between theory and practice when along come some one and slammed the cooler door shut and barred it on the outside and Johnny was in it. The thick walls of his prison beat back in feeble sounds waves the voice that struggled vainly to reach the ears of outside help. The beads of perspiration that he carried in with him began to feel like icicles. Cold chills ran up and down his spinal column. Convinced that extreme cold follows extreme heat, he continued to pound and yell, until after what seemed to him a long, long time the heavy door swung open and Johnny came tumbling out from his cold storage quarters, offering as an excuse for his absence that he was tired of people asking him, "Is it hot enough for you?"

David W. Hommel, wife and daughters of Saxton were guests of his daughter, Mrs. May Lasher, on Saturday.

The M. E. Sunday school will hold a picnic for the children on Wednesday of this week on grounds of the Glasco Ice Co.

Hoyt Weeks, Jr., and family left Wednesday in their family car for a week's outing. Their first stop was Highland Falls. From thence to Brooklyn to visit friends.

Arthur Sinsapaugh enjoyed an auto trip to Pine Hill and other mountain resorts on Sunday.

Miss Myrtle Weeks is the happy recipient of many congratulations and several handsome gifts upon having passed through the prescribed course of study at the Tebow school in Kingston and graduated with honor. Miss Weeks is now well qualified to fill any good business position where the services of an expert stenographer and typist and other office duties are required.

John Pataflo, an Italian evangelist, preached at the M. E. Church on Sunday morning. He is engaged in mission work in different places where he can meet his native countrymen and talk to them of the old gospel.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet with Miss Laura Lent on Thursday at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Lydia Van Wart expects to take in several city boarders today at her cottage.

A little daughter of Mrs. James Canaley, Jr., about 6 or 7 years old, was so severely burned yesterday that after terrible suffering died early this morning. She and a playmate were down in the garden near the home and amused themselves by starting a fire and when her clothing caught fire her playmate being frightened, ran away, leaving her alone and helpless. When her cries brought help it was too late. Her clothing was nearly all burned off. Dr. Krom was called but his services were of no avail.

UNION CENTER.

Union Center, Aug. 2.—Frank Page of Ulster Park and Mrs. Charles Forbes and daughter, Margaret, of Kingston called on Mrs. L. Van Keuren on Saturday evening of last week.

The Sunday school picnic was held on Thursday afternoon and evening and was a success in every way. The men played the boys a game of baseball and won only by hard work. About $18 will be added to the Sunday school treasury.

The Sunshine Class has received the banner for attendance for the month of July at Sunday school.

COATS, SUITS, DRESSES, WAISTS, SKIRTS AND RAINCOATS MUST BE SOLD!

Our IRON CLAD RULE of No Goods carried over from one season to the other makes it imperative that we take the BIGGEST LOSSES of the Season to accomplish our purpose.

It is the greatest distribution of bargains in this part of the STATE and in which every lady is deeply interested, for it sends into the many homes merchandise of merit at practically 25 cents on the dollar.

It is a genuine feast of bargains. It is a positive clearance of Spring and Summer Goods. Never before were our stocks so large at this season.

You would be doing your pocketbook a grievous injustice to miss this astonishing money saving event, which occurs but twice a year—January and August—when merchandise is sold regardless of cost—when cost cuts no figure. No matter how far away you live it will pay you handsomely to participate in this gigantic distribution.

Sale Starts Thursday Morning, August 5, at 9:30 o'clock sharp with a large force of salespeople to wait upon you. Everything must be sold; we will not carry over one piece of merchandise into next season. This is an ironclad rule with us, therefore look for big bargains. Choose to your heart's content from this beautiful collection. They are mostly staple styles—always good. We have customers that come every year from nearby states to attend these sales—it's become a habit with them. They buy all their wearables, regular wardrobes, and they save big money—something worth while. To miss it would be a great mistake. If it was only an ordinary sale we would not make it so impressive or urge you so earnestly to attend; but the bargains warrant us to go to the very limit.

RULES GOVERNING THIS SALE!

Positively no sales goods exchanged. No C. O. D.'s. No approvals. No merchants sold or anyone buying for them. No alterations free.

DECISION ON DYNAMITE RATES

Much interest attaches to the recent decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the case of the Nitro Powder Company against the West Shore Railroad Company and others, which was decided in favor of the Powder Company, as stated in Monday's Freeman.

The complaint of the Powder Company that the rates charged for shipping dynamite to New England points was filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission on October 5, 1914. The matter was submitted to the commission on March 15, 1915, and decided on July 3.

By the decision the Nitro Powder Company not only will receive lower rates in the future on dynamite shipments to all points in New England, but will receive reparation in the form of a refund for the excessive rates charged on all shipments since October 6, 1912, which will amount to several thousand dollars.

Emanuel Metzger, president of the Nitro Powder Company, appeared for that company, with J. D. Gray of New York city of counsel; J. M. Sternhagen and E. S. Ballard appeared for the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company, which is lessee of the West Shore; Charles L. Andrus appeared for the New York, Ontario & Western Railway; S. S. Perry appeared for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company and the Central New England Railroad Company; E. W. Abbott appeared for the Boston & Maine Railroad; R. Van Ummersen for the Boston & Albany Railroad, and George Cassidy for the Rutland Railroad Company.

The commission's decision in full is as follows:

Report of the Commission.

Complainant is a corporation engaged in manufacturing high explosives, with its principal place of business at Kingston, N. Y. By complaint filed October 5, 1914, it alleges that the rates on high explosives from Kingston and Port Ewen, N. Y., to points of destination in the New England states are unreasonable and, in comparison with the rates on the same commodity from more distant points to the same destinations, are unjustly discriminatory and subject complainant and its traffic to undue prejudice and disadvantage. Reparation is asked and through routes and just and reasonable joint rates.

Kingston and Port Ewen are on the west bank of the Hudson river, approximately 90 miles north of Jersey City, N. J., and 50 miles south of Albany. The two points are less than 3 miles apart. Port Ewen is served by the West Shore railroad; Kingston by the West Shore and the New York, Ontario & Western railway. Complainant ships from both points.

For some years the rates on high explosives from all producing points in eastern trunk line territory have been the same to Boston, Mass., and to Boston rate points. The rates are published as specific commodity rates. During most of the time involved the rates have been 50 cents per 100 pounds carloads, $1 per 100 pounds less than carloads. The average distance from Kingston and Port Ewen to Boston is 255 miles; the revenues per ton-mile under the rates named more than 3.9 cents on carload shipments and nearly 7.85 cents on less than carload shipments. From Emporium, Pa., one of the more distant points from which the same rates applied, the longest route to Boston is 725 miles. The per ton-mile earnings over this route were more than 1 1-3 cents for carloads, approximately 2¾ cents for less than carloads.

Defendants publish no joint rates from producing points in trunk line territory to some of the New England destination points involved. The through rates applicable are the joint rates to Boston or junctions taking the Boston rate, plus the local rates of the delivering carrier beyond. The local rates in New England in many, if not in all, instances are as high as the rates from trunk line territory to Boston. In such cases the through rates on high explosives in less than carloads amount substantially to four times the first-class rate from Pittsburgh to Boston; the through carload rates to double the first-class rate from Pittsburgh to Boston. No ratings are provided for high explosives in the official classification. High explosives more in official classification territory under ratings published in exceptions to the classification or at rates provided by the tariffs of the individual carries. The traffic to or in New England territory moves at specific commodity rates. The rates from points in trunk line territory, previously named, amount, respectively, to the first-class rate and double the first-class rate from Pittsburgh to Boston.

Defendant New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad explains that there are no manufacturers of high explosives in New England, although there are stores and depots from which high explosives are distributed either by wagon or by rail, generally in less-than-carload lots. The New Haven charges 1 cent per pound, minimum charge $1, on all local shipments in quantities of 4,000 pounds or less; double first-class rates, minimum charge $40, for quantities of 4,000 pounds. In making rates from points in trunk line territory this local rate on less than carloads is extended until it meets the double first-class rate to Boston from the Buffalo-Pittsburgh district. The New Haven desires to conserve the revenue derived from local traffic and to avoid joint rates less than the locals; also to put all producers in trunk line territory on an equal basis.

Normally, the rates on high explosives in carloads should not exceed the rates on articles taking the first-class rating, while the less-than-carload rates should not exceed double-first class. For some years a few articles coming under the general description of high explosives have had lower ratings than first class and double first class. The record indicates some differences between the conditions of transportation in New England territory and in trunk line territory, but nothing sufficiently substantial to warrant the difference in rates and rate structures described. Between points in official classification territory, except New England territory, the ordinary basis of rate making for high explosives is the percentage basis applied to rates not exceeding first class and double first class between Chicago and New York. To New England territory from points in central freight association territory the rates are generally on the percentage basis and not higher than first and double first class. The present rates from Kingston and Port Ewen to Boston and to points taking the same rates are 52½ cents per 100 pounds in carloads and $1.05 in less than carloads. The present first class rate from Kingston and Port Ewen to Boston is 35 cents per 100 pounds.

To some of the points involved the charges collected were unusually high, not only for the reasons given but because the carriers, as explained, had no joint rates in effect. Some of the defendants express willingness to establish joint rates to all points on their lines on less-than-carload as well as on carload shipments. Others decline to make such rates.

No good reason is offered for the absence of joint through rates in the past or for the refusal to establish them now. Through rates should be established to New England points and joint rates not in excess of the first class for carloads, and double first class for less than carloads, although the Boston & Maine need not carry high explosives through the Hoosac tunnel in violation of the state statute against it. The Boston & Maine, however, has available connections with other lines through which all points on its lines may be reached without traversing the Hoosac tunnel. The rates herein found reasonable and prescribed as maxima for the future are sufficiently high to provide adequate revenue for the service involved.

Upon all the facts of record we find that the rates on high explosives from Kingston and Port Ewen to Boston and to other points in New England have been, are, and for the future will be, unreasonable and excessive to the extent that they exceed the first class and double first class rates contemporaneously applicable from Kingston and Port Ewen to the same points; that complainant has made shipments since October 6, 1912, on which it was charged rates herein found unreasonable; that it has been damaged to the extent of the difference between the charges paid and the charges that would have accrued at the rates herein found to have been reasonable, and that it is entitled to reparation with interest. Complainant accordingly should prepare a statement showing as to each shipment on which reparation is claimed, the date of movement, point or origin, point of destination, route, weight car number and initials, rate charged, and the amount of reparation due under our findings herein, with statement should be submitted to defendants for verification. Upon receipt of a statement so prepared by complainants and verified by defendants, we will consider issuing an order awarding reparation.

An appropriate order will be entered.

"Herne's Oak."

There was a tradition, as old as Shakespeare's time, that one Herne, a keeper in Windsor park, hung himself upon a certain oak tree and that it was ever after haunted by his ghost. Some say the tree was inadvertently cut down in 1796, and others that it stood until blown down in 1863. The British Encyclopedia recognizes the legend without vouching for its truth, and says that Queen Victoria planted a young oak on the spot where the old "Herne oak" blew down in 1863.

Early German Marriage Custom.

Among the early Germans money was given to the bride's relatives on the wedding day, but this usage was not followed if the marriage happened to be an unequal one.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY
AUGUST 3

Marriage for the person of this birthdate should be made with a person whose birthdate falls between March 21 and April 21 for the greatest happiness.

This is the sign of the Lion and gives a warm courageous nature, sympathetic with keen intuitions and good business judgment. Leo women are inclined to be too critical and Leo men to be very fastidious in their dress.

This date is favored with success for finding lost articles through The Freeman Want Ads. Selling real estate or automobiles will be profitable if Want Ads are used freely.

ADVERTISEMENT WRITING.

PUT first whatever you please—morals, health, patriotism or joy riding—the next best thing is getting along in the business world. Some men right in the thick of the business whirl could improve their condition 100 per cent if they followed the rules of the man who uses his advertising appropriation judiciously. Waste of newspaper space is gross extravagance and leaves the impression that advertising doesn't pay. Let me help you with trade-getting advertisements, circulars, booklets, etc. My terms are reasonable. George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

DAY'S WAR NEWS AT A GLANCE

Paris—Germans bombarded Soissons and Les Eparges. Severe German attacks in Vosges been repulsed.

Berlin—Von Beulow's cavalry army which swept through Mitau, only twenty miles from Riga. Von Mackensen's army also making progress southeast of Warsaw.

Petrograd—Austro-Germans began to bombard Russian forts with heavy guns. Delivering terrific attacks in Mitau-Baush district endeavoring to pierce Russian lines.

London—Another gain made by allies on Gallipoli peninsula, according to report of British commander. British steamer Ranza sunk, presumably by submarine. Thirteen of crew missing.

Rome—Italian howitzers rapidly reducing Fort Hensel in Carnic Alps. Italians expect to cut Austrian communication between Trentino and Carinthia.

MEXICAN BANDITS FIGHT U. S. TROOPS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 3.—Private McGuire, of Troop C., 12th United States cavalry, was killed, Private Curtis was wounded and Deputy Sheriff Monahan had an ear shot off in a fight between American regulars and Texas Rangers and a strong body of Mexican bandits on Scrivner ranch, near San Benito, early today. The bandits were driven from their shelter today leaving 12 dead behind. A battle is now raging in the brush and reinforcements for the U. S. forces are being rushed to the scene.

Fifty Mexicans, believed to be Carranzista soldiers, crossed the Rio Grande on Sunday and began raiding American ranches. When American cowboys attempted to drive them off the Mexicans opened up with rifles and revolvers and the cowboys had to flee.

The Texas Rangers were notified and a detachment of Rangers and U. S. cavalry were rushed to the scene.

It is reported that 100 more Mexicans have crossed the Rio Grande to reinforce their comrades and an appeal has been sent to the war department at Washington to send more troops to the scene.

A great number of cattle and horses were driven off by the Mexicans.

SOCIETY NOTES.

FOUR BADLY HURT BY SKIDDING CARS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Utica, Aug. 3.—Three men and one woman were severely injured, two automobiles were wrecked and several other cars were slightly damaged in a series of accidents on the Utica-Syracuse highway near this city today. The epidemic of mishaps was due mainly to skidding on a pavement made slippery by rain.

There were four accidents within a few hours today. The most serious occurred to a touring car occupied by a party of Utica men on their way to Binghamton. This car skidded hurling its occupants in various directions. Of the five men in the machine two were sent to a hospital severely injured. One, Charles Amlett, Utica hotel proprietor, may die.

The second accident occurred almost before the echo of the first crash had died away. A touring car, westbound and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Wiggins, of Albany, skidded off the road on the opposite side and turned bottom up on the railway tracks. Mrs. Wiggins was painfully injured.

POLISH TOWN OF KHOLM.

Center From Which Russification of Poland Was Directed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—"Kholm, or Chelm, as the Poles spell it, has been one of the most interesting of Polish towns under Russian administration, for from this quiet corner of subject Poland the government program for the Russification of the Poles has been directed," says a descriptive statement issued by the National Geographic Society. "Just over the Russian border, surrounded by endless acres of forest and agricultural land, the whole region in which it lies possessed of but indifferent means for communication, and, so, screened from the feverish, suspicious politics of Warsaw and other Polish centers, Kholm, in peace times, was a strategic point of rare advantages for the propagation of Russian influences.

"The Russian ideals, the Russian tongue, Russian methods and the Russian religion entered Poland by way of Kholm, and from here painstaking efforts were made to spread them among all the peasantry. The Russian point of view has sought to penetrate by way of the Kholm-Lublin-Ivangorod railway line, and from here, too, it has made its way south, even beyond the Galician borders to the great Polish city of Lemberg. Thus, Kholm, which the Russian soldiers defended so splendidly, was a Russian stronghold in more senses than one. It was the sentimental and intellectual heart of the Russian program in Poland.

"Kholm is the seat of a Russian bishop. The National Greek Church, though it claims but few followers over the Polish boundary, is here strongly intrenched. The city supports a number of Greek churches, and an Ecclesiastical Seminary long founded here offers to the Poles and to Russian missionaries to the Poles the learning of the Greek church. The Russian Church has based mighty efforts from Kholm for the conversion of the Poles to the 'Church of most of the Slavs.' Its success, however, is still hanging in the balance.

"The city is very ancient. It was founded by Daniel, Prince of Galicz, as business headquarters for rich family estates. It is today a living specimen of archaeology, with the railway running through it as one of the few reminders of the modern age. The shell fire of today shaking this out-of-date, time-sleepy city must cause an uncanny realization among its citizens of the strides that the ages have made since Kholm last came into immediate contact with the outside world. The city, most of which was built without a plan, provides a home for 20,000 peple, and, before the outbreak of the war, provided an arsenal, a quiet but powerful source of Russification plans and sinews.

"Lublin, the important manufacturing town of this part of Russian Poland, lies 45 miles west-northwest of Kholm by the Kief-Warsaw Railway. Kholm forms the south termination of the strategic railroad that runs behind the last line of Russian defense in Poland, that north-and-south line of the Bug, reenforced, and continued north from the Bug, by the Kholm-Brest Litovsk-Bieostok-Osowiec Railway. Its possession, therefore, is of great military importance. The country around Kholm grows an abundance of grains, and is, also, very rich in its production of other agricultural products."

Many Fishermen.

Despite the rain storm this afternoon the Powell dock along the Rondout creek was lined with fishermen who met with indifferent success. One man more lucky than his fellows caught three large eels, two being fully three feet in length. On Monday some of the fishermen caught several fine bass, which fact brought out the large number of fishermen today.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 3.—The feature of the trading on the stock exchange today was an advance in many of the war order stocks and leading railways. Bethlehem Steel rose several points to 265 and advances of 1 to 2 points were made in Crucible Steel, Allis Chalmers, New York Air Brake and many other issues in that group. United States Steel Common advanced ⅝ to 68⅜, the highest price touched in more than a year. Rock Island was the feature of the railway list rising 1½ to 14⅞. The bonds of the road have been in good demand. The copper stocks were strong and active. Tennessee Copper opened ⅛ higher at 39⅛, American Smelting gained 1½ to 80½ and Anaconda ⅝ to 71⅝.

Noon—Vigorous advances in the war order stocks were again the feature of the late forenoon, gains of from 2 to over 5 points being noted. Bethlehem Steel moved up to a new high record of 274. New Haven receded a point to 63 and Reading ¼ to 159. Republic Iron and Steel advanced 1¼ to 44½, against 42¾ at the close yesterday. Money loaning at 1¾ per cent.

Considerable interest was attached to Rock Island. In the first half of the last hour this issue sold around 16 against 13¾ at the close last night. California Petroleum sold up to 16¼ a net gain of 3 points. Some of the socalled war stocks showed evidence of pressure and were lower. U. S. Steel showed a firm tone, holding around 68¼.

The market closed nervous. Governments unchanged. Other bonds heavy.

New Fire Peril.

Birds carrying matches to their nests under the eaves of a college building in New York were blamed for a fire starting. The new art of fire prevention would preferably place the blame on the human agency which left such dangerous little weapons as matches where the birds could find them to carry them to the eaves.

Hard to Cover Up Faults.

Do not congratulate yourself that you have covered up your own faults. You may find that your neighbor knows more about you than you realize, and some of those little things which you think are not known outside of your own family may be even now common property of those on the other side of the fence.

Giant Ostriches of the Past.

In alluvial deposits of Madagascar there have been found skeletons of ostriches which, when alive, were fourteen to fifteen feet in height.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Elting Van Ness Holsopple died on Monday evening at his home, No. 52 Elmendorf street. He is survived by his wife and three children, Mrs. Theodore L. Waugh of New York city, Mrs. J. L. DeLaney of Millerton and Mrs. Robert Hutton of this city. The funeral and interment will be private.

Frederick Kullmann, a bridge worker, was killed on Saturday in a fall from a bridge on which he was working in Brooklyn. The funeral was held today from the residence of his sister, Mrs. Mary Krumnow, No. 648 Courtland avenue, the Bronx, New York city, with interment in Woodlawn cemetery. Mr. Kullman is a brother of Peter A. Kullmann, of No. 60 West Pierpont street.

The funeral of Mrs. Peter Cole took place on Sunday afternoon from her late residence, 201 Wall street. The Rev. C. H. Polhemus, her former pastor of Port Ewen, officiated, assisted by the Rev. F. B. Seeley. The beautiful floral offerings from her many friends were truly suggestive of the beauty and fragance of her noble, unselfish character. Mr. Cole and relatives have the sympathy of many friends.

John Anglin, Sr., a former resident of this city, died on Sunday at his residence, No. 2055 Ryer avenue, New York city, after a long illness. Besides his widow he is survived by eight children. While a resident of this city Mr. Anglin was for a number of years an engineer at the plant of the Newark Lime & Cement Company in Ponkhockie. He removed his family to New York about eight years ago. The remains will be brought to this city on Wednesday for funeral and interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Aug. 3.—What does it avail a ball club if it possesses the greatest batsman in the land if its pitching staff is punk? And the answer is—nothing.

A good pitching staff is far more essential to a ball club's success than is a wrecking crew of batters. Baseball records of the past and present show the truth of that statement.

Those N. Y. Giants are pretty well down in the rut although they have three men slugging over the .300 mark and three others near it. Doyle is hitting around .325, Merkle is clouting for .320 and Robertson boasts of a .310 average.

No team in baseball packs a greater batting bunch than those Brooklyn Federals. Magee is hitting around .375 and Kauff is near .360. Three other Brookfed regulars are over the .300 mark—yet the team is in second division.

The Detroit outfield is swatting the well known horse skin for a combined average around .360—a tremendous clip, yet the Tigers are third in the race—and no better.

Back in the bygone days the Cleveland Naps toted around the greatest collection of sluggers that ever battled under one standard, Lajoie, Bemis, Bay, Hickman, Bradley, "Nig" Clarke and a few more fence busters. Practically every man in the outfit was a .300 hitter. Yet Cleveland, during those days never came near to winning a pennant.

On the other hand, the Chicago White Sox, back in 1906 had pitchers—and no batters. Yet the Sox won a pennant and a world series in that year. In 1912, 1913, and 1914 the Senators, minus batting power but plus some mighty pitchers, acted as runners up in nearly all three pennant battles.

Getting right down to this present day and age we find the Phillies clinging to the top of the National League leap. Outside of Luderous and Cravath, the Phillies haven't any batters—but they have Grover Cleveland Alexander and a few other pitching persons. The Dodgers, who have assumed the role of runner up, have a real batter in Jake Daubert and a timely hitter in Zack Wheat. Their hitting power ends there. But the Dodgers have "Besky" Dell, Jack Coombs, "Hasen" Pfeffer and "Nap" Rucker on the pitching staff. That's why they are where they are.

The Red Sox, as a team, aren't hitting up to pennant winning standard. But they have about five pitchers who are pitching a world series brand of baseball—and look where those Red Sox are located in the standing of clubs.

The Kansas City Feds and the St. Louis Feds present weak hitting combinations. But they have the pitchers—and they've been in the pennant fight since the middle of May.

In other words, one good pitcher seems to be of more value to a ball club than two or three slugging infielders, outfielders or catchers.

While on the subject of batting we will listen to a few words from John McGraw, who now speaks:

"The bulk of recruits who come into the big leagues nowadays don't step into the ball. Instead, they step away from it and, as a result, few of them ever will be batters.

"Just why the new crop of ball players should be plate shy is a mystery to me. In the olden days all the men stepped into the ball and hit it on the nose. Of course, some of them were hit by pitched balls, but that always was looked upon as a something that was to be expected—and endured."

WHY INVENTORS FAIL.

Most of Them Impractical and Give Only Vague Descriptions.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, August 3.—One of the most disputed questions is as to the reception which is given by the admiralty and war office to inventors. It is certainly asserted that inventors are cold-shouldered by public departments which do not take the trouble to understand their inventions.

The appointment of Lord Fisher as the head of a board to consider inventions submitted to the admiralty seems a step in the right direction.

The International News Service correspondent who wrote to Sir Hiram Maxim on the subject received this letter, which, written by the great inventor, seems to put the case fairly between the inventor and the official:

"I think the appointment of Lord Fisher as an examiner of inventions is a very good one. It is quite true the officials of the war office do not reply to all the letters they receive. This, of course, would be absolutely impossible. I am only a private individual, and still I have submitted to me at least 500 alleged new inventions every year, and the war office has at least one hundred times as many.

"It is a curious and interesting fact that during the last thirty years I have not had submitted to me a single invention that was both new and useful.

"I have done a lot in the way of inventing myself. When I was a young man it was said that there was no way of keeping the density of carburetted air constant. Many gas machines were being used at that time for lighting private houses, still I discovered two distinctly different systems, and both went into general use.

"The incandescent lamps first made by Thomas Edison only lasted a few hours, but by process discovered by myself these incandescent lamps were made to last many months. I heated the carbons electrically in a highly attenuated atmosphere by hydro-carbon vapours. Of course, the carbon was deposited on the hottest parts, and then the filaments became uniform throughout their entire length. A learned English judge has declared that this was the invention that made incandescent electric lighting possible.

"When the Americans commenced to make incandescent lights they had to use phosphoric anhydride to keep their pumps dry. It was imported from Germany and cost about 20s. per pound. It was pale yellow in color, but if perfectly pure it should have been snow white. When all the chemists had failed in the states I got up at 5 o'clock one morning, made drawings, had some tinmen working on the job at seven o'clock, and that night at ten I was making snow-white phosphoric anhydride at the rate of a litre per minute, perfectly pure without any after treatment and without the use of oxygen gas, except that contained in the atmosphere, at a cost of 1s. per pound.

"When the scientific men of England were puzzling their brains to discover the secret of the slow-burning German brown powder and the war office was about to pay 135,000 pounds for the secret, Sir Andrew Clark, surveyor-general of ordnance, invited me to the war office and I discovered the secret inside of a few minutes. I went into a powder mill and made one hundred kinds of powder, each of different rate of burning, and saved the money.

"I was the first man in the world to invent or to make an automatic gun. I made and took out patents on guns working by action of the recoil, on guns worked by a piston, by the blast from the muzzel and by the backward movement of the cartridge in the chamber at the instant of firing. All automatic guns, no matter how worked, were invented by me.

"The very great rapidity of fire called for smokeless powder and I commenced to experiment evenings. I soon had an excellent powder. Sir Richard Webster (later Lord Alverstone) declared in the great cordite case that Sir Hiram Maxim was without question the inventor of modern smokeless powder. I also discovered the secret of melinite.

"Still, I imagine it would be very difficult for me to introduce any new invention in the way of a firearm into the service, that is, provided the system existed only in theory. The officials would certainly demand a working model.

"This is what would-be inventors should bear in mind. If they wish to receive attention from officials they must present something that is both new and useful and in tangible form. A pencil drawing on a piece of dirty paper will not do."

The aerial torpedo, invented by a Swedish officer and sold to Krupps, may have been the basis of Germany's new air weapon, but certainly it is not the finished article. The Swedish invention resembles a huge shell fitted with a turbine engine driven by gas pressure; the German air torpedo is more like an airship, fitted with propellers driven by electricity and controlled from a Zeppelin by wireless. The German aerial torpedo can, theoretically, remain in the air for three hours and can be controlled from a distance of two miles. Both weapons are discharged from a tube like a marine torpedo, but in the case of the German invention two propellers and two lifting screws are automatically started at the moment of discharge.

In shape this torpedo of the air, which is about seven feet long, resembles the submarine weapon. It is composed of two cases, the outer of thin chrome nickel and the inner of material similar to that used in Zeppelins. About the sixth of the space at the rear is occupied by an electric accummulator at the bottom and an electric motor generator secured to the top. The machinery is controlled by Hertzian waves acting on the Telefunken system of wireless and it is claimed that up to a distance of two miles the air torpedo can be steered at will.

The air torpedo is inflated with water gas and compressed gas, but as it is heavier than the air, two lifting screws work under the body to keep the torpedo in the air, while the motive power is supplied by propellers. Both screws and propellers are connected with the same shaft, which runs through the body if the torpedo.

When the air torpedo after flying through the air, hovers immediately over the selected target it is made to assume a vertical position, the lifting horizontal screws and propellers are stopped, and the torpedo dives to the ground, carrying a large quantity of high-explosive charge at its nose. The charge explodes on contact like an ordinary shell, and is said that in two torpedoes there is sufficient explosive force to destroy the Tower of London.

Originally these air torpedoes were destined to be carried exclusively by Zeppelins, but owing to certain improvements it has now been found they can be manipulated from warships. According to my information Germany proposes to use torpedoes of the air against the British fleet, and for that purpose small, swift craft armed only with aerial torpedoes are building or have been already built. So far this flying death has not been employed against the allies, but I learn it is to be tried probably over London this summer.

KINGSTONIAN BOILERS

We Want to Talk Heating With You

But mind you, we are not going to ask you to buy a single thing. All we want is just the chance to tell you what little we know about the strong points about this Kingstonian Boiler we are selling.

After we have told them to you—if that boiler doesn't sell itself to you, all we could ever say between now and next Election wouldn't move you an inch.

But just bear this in mind: no matter what "system" you install, the boiler is the vital thing.

If you want to come around and talk it over this evening, we'll stay down.
